The first two websites were two of the best websites that talked about the war between Iran and Iraq in 1980, both sites free sites, published by a trusted institutions and the were dated, the had no commercials pop-ups, you can contact the author and for sure answers the questions that I were looking for. But the third website didn't answer the question, it was a private individual and it was also published by a private individual so we can't trust the information in it.

The reason for giving the bonus points:

1. The first site:
 - For the attractive colors
 - The well organized information
2. The second site :
 - For the good organization
 - For the large amount of information
